

Message from Chairman, Cllr Mick Appleby

I have lived in the Parish of Ecclesfield since 1979. Over the years I have been an active community volunteer at the Chapelgreen Advice Centre. I have been a volunteer at the Centre for over 9 years and have been responsible for running the organisation for the last four years. I also organise a successful reading group at Chapeltown Library and have done so for the last nine years. I also run an outreach session at the St Saviour's Project on a two weekly basis. The Parish Council has continued to serve the area in many ways including its archive project, responding to planning applications, and making grants to local organisations; all of which benefit the community. I should like to thank parish councillors and members of staff for their continued hard work for the community we serve.
